Grave Expectations (The Ministry Of Curiosities Book 4)

Synopsis

Charlie's life is perfect. She has everything her heart desires. Until it all goes horribly wrong. Charlie and Lincoln return to London to find two supernaturals have been murdered, and Charlie might be next. As if that wasn't bad enough, the man who adopted her has escaped from prison, and the committee members have just learned some news that infuriates them. Now they talk of sending Charlie away again. Far away. But the worst is yet to come. Charlie is kidnapped and forced to summon one of the murder victims – but she's unable to send him back. With an angry dead supernatural on the loose and the committee determined to get rid of her, Charlie's time with the Ministry of Curiosities, and Lincoln, is in grave danger of coming to an end.

Customer Reviews

I enjoyed the previous 3 books, but was already frustrated and bored with the push-pull of the recalcitrant Lincoln, dragging his heels behind his stoic, brooding aloofness towards any romantic relationship, the ever-present arrogant ex-mistress, and the disdainful Committee - all of whom seemed both ready and eager to make use of Charlie's talents at the drop of a hat and shove her into a back room when not needed for fear someone else might use her as they would. Whereas I have enjoyed the various little mysteries in each book, I am far more interested in the relationships of the characters that make up Lincoln's 'family'. So, for me, the slow space of their evolution, coupled with a formulaic mystery plus one or more obligatory abductions was wearing thin. I was thrilled, then, to note that the trip to France seemed to highlight a new, gentler, more well-rounded Lincoln whose evolution had moved himself and his relationship with Charlie beyond the ice age.>>>SPOILER
